Claims of Wray Taylor's Children.

CROWN LANDS INVOLVED

Despite Their Descent From Kamehameha's Half Brother They Refuse to Sue.

Since Hawaii became a Territory there has been more certainty than ever that many of the claims of Hawaiians to the crown lands, or the Kamehameha estates, as they are sometimes called, will be advanced. The claims of Prince Albert Kuniakia are already in legal shape for forwarding to Washington. A prominent attorney has had the latter's interests in hand for some time, and lately completed his labors as far as tracing out the prince's genealogy was concerned, and preparing a brief to show why he should be entitled to a share in the great estates.

It is learned on good authority that Wray Taylor's daughters have a more direct claim to a share of the crown lands than many contestants who have been in the field for the last four years. It was learned a few days ago that a prominent law firm of this city has been busily engaged in working up the claims of many descendants of the line of Kamehameha, and those of Mr. Taylor's children were also under consideration.

Mr. Taylor stated yesterday that he has never broached the subject of endeavoring to establish a claim to the estates for his daughters. On the contrary, he said he did not believe the matter was one which would justify him in making any contest. When it was brought to his attention that his daughters' claims were as strong as any others in the field, he put aside the suggestion at once, and decided that he would make no move to contest.

The daughters trace their genealogy direct to Kamehameha the First's half brother, Kaleimamahu. Through the chiefess Auheha back to Kamehameha I, there is not a break in the chain, and it is upon this assumption, possibly, that the lawyers see more chance for this latest claim than in some others.

As a matter of history and genealogy, their family tree is as follows: Wray Taylor's first wife was the chiefess Elizabeth Keomailani Croninburg, and she was the daughter of the chiefess Auheha; Auheha was the daughter of Nanihahana (w) and Kailukui (k); Nanihahana was the daughter of Peleuli (w) the daughter of Kaleimamahu (w) half-brother of Kamehameha I, and Prince Kealimikaili. This half-brother of the conqueror was the son of Keona by his wife, Ka'akaeheukuli. Keona had three wives: Kekulapoina, mother of Kamehameha I, and Kekulapoina, mother of Kaleimamahu; Kaleimamahu, mother of Kealimamahu; Kaleimamahu, mother of Kealimamahu; Kaleimamahu, mother of Kealimamahu.

The chiefess Auheha, grandmother of the Taylor children, died last year, and as an acknowledgment of her high position she was buried just outside the vault in which repose the bones of the late King Lunalilo, in the premises of Kawaiahao Church. Lunalilo was Auheha's second cousin, his mother being the daughter of Kamehameha I's half-brother, Kaleimamahu, by Kaheihemalie (w). This made Peleuli (w), Auheha's grandmother, and Kekulapoina, Lunalilo's mother, half-sisters, both being the children of Kaleimamahu (k), the half-brother of the conqueror.

Later on Kamehameha I took Kaheihemalie, his half-brother's wife, to himself. She was also the sister of his half-brother, Kaleimamahu. Kaheihemalie had one daughter—Kinau, the mother of Kamehameha IV, and V, and Princess Kamamalu.

By this reasoning Wray Taylor's children and Mrs. Miriam Peleuli Amalu are heirs to the crown lands on account of the close relationship existing with Kamehameha I. Mrs. Miriam Peleuli Amalu is also a granddaughter of the chiefess Auheha, her father being Kieamokui Croninburg son of Auheha and brother of the late Mrs. Wray Taylor.

HAD A LOAD ON.

Prominent Citizens to the Rescue of a Wrecked Wagon.

A too-heavily loaded wagon came to grief on King street yesterday evening. Five or six huge timbers constituted its load. Some were twenty feet long or thereabouts while others were something like forty feet in length. Part of the construction of the rear truck gave way under the strain and let the timbers down. Aid was summoned and arrived in the form of a hand-cart, a gang of men, jacks, blocks, crowbars, policemen, small boys, a curious crowd and a representative of the press. The wrecking-gang did the work while members of the police department and prominent merchants and politicians stood around and gave advice relating how they personally had mended a shipwrecked load in five minutes when they were boys.

An agent of the firm which was shipping the timber was on hand looking after the interests of his house, as was also an agent of the people to whom the lumber was consigned.

Notwithstanding the advice of leading citizens, the tumbled load was righted within thirty-seven minutes from the time it spilled. The police dispersed the crowd and the wagon weighed anchor and got away for her destination with a fair wind.

Police Notes.

In the Police Court yesterday morning the cases of Harry Le Roy, Bob Gardner and Charles Buchanan, alleged to have sold liquor without licenses, were postponed until this morning. Miamoto was fined $100 and costs for building a house without a permit and Ah Mun paid $2 and costs for riding a bicycle without a light.

Among the passengers by the Kinai for Hilo on Monday will be W. M. Cunningham and other horse fanciers.

JAPANESE PAPER BLAMED

Consul Miki Saito Back From Garden Isle Tells of Conditions.

After spending several days among the Japanese laborers of different plantations on the Island of Kauai, the Japanese Consul, Miki Saito, returned yesterday to Honolulu in the steamship Waialeale.

The Japanese Consul says that peace now reigns among his countrymen on the Garden Isle. He has persuaded them to keep quiet and those who were creating so much disturbance a little while ago, have now returned to their work.

Some little trouble was met with at Lihue. At Kekaha the Consul was obliged to talk for several hours at a stretch before the laborers would listen to reason. These laborers had been out on a strike for a week or more, having had some misunderstanding with the immigration companies. Consul Saito believes that the Kauai trouble is at an end and that the Japanese laborers have had things satisfactorily explained to them.

The immigration companies have lately been receiving delegations of Japanese laborers from those plantations where the forces are on strike. These delegations state their demands and conferences are many. Twenty men came from Spreckelsville and saw the managers of the immigration companies. The majority of the delegates return home satisfied, to declare peace and go to work.

The immigration companies declare that the Hawaii Shippo is agitating strikes and the secretary of the associated immigration companies blames the Japanese newspaper for many of the delegates not resuming work, saying that it got together a meeting of the Japanese laborers who were dissatisfied to talk over their supposed wrongs.

Ozawa, the secretary of the associated immigration companies further states that the various delegates are thoroughly ignorant concerning the real state of affairs when they come here and that a good number of them were laboring under delusions for which the Hawaii Shippo was responsible.

Some of them are convinced that they have been misled by the Japanese paper, yet many, says the secretary, continue to receive and read the newspaper who are not correctly informed in the matter and who believe that which they see in print.

The laborers of Maui plantation recently called at the immigration office, demanding that their passports from Japan to Honolulu be returned to them. The passports are absolutely worthless, having been issued in Japan for the men to come to Honolulu. The passports were returned as requested.

COATS OFF ON RIO.

Physical Director Will Camp at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

A. J. Coats, the Physical Director of the Honolulu Y. M. C. A., leaves tomorrow on the Rio to attend the big Y. M. C. A. instruction camp at Lake Geneva, Wis. He will proceed first to his home in Grand Rapids, Mich., thence to Chicago and afterwards go to the camp where he will remain a month as one of the instructors in gymnastics, heavy apparatus work and aquatics.

The announcement of the Y. M. C. A. Sectarian Institute gives Mr. Coats a prominent place in all the classes, as he is a recognized authority on matters physical. Mr. Coats expects to finish his labors at the camp in time to return to Honolulu by the middle of September to begin the fall gymnasium work here.

KAHUKU STOCK CHANGE.

Each Share of Company Split into Five Parts.

The certificates of stock for the Kahuku plantation have been called in by the company for the purpose of issuing shares of the par value of $20 each in exchange. At present the par value per share is $100. This will give each stockholder five shares instead of one. With Kahuku listed on the stock boards at $150, this means that the new shares will commence life on the stock exchange at about $30 each.

Mr. Bolte, the secretary of the company, has issued a circular to all the stockholders of the company asking that the stock certificates be sent in as soon as possible in order to effect the change to the new number of shares at the earliest possible date.

Olivette at the Orpheum.

The Southwell Company presented "Olivette" at the Orpheum last evening to a good house. All the cast were in good voice and an energetic rendition of this bright and catchy opera was given. Mr. Wolff as Cocquellot was a strong and unmistakable hit, his song "Bob Up Serenely," with its local verses received encore after encore.

The delicacy of treatment which Winfred Goff gives to Duke Des Its was appreciated. Captain De Mesumac was portrayed by Phil Branson in lively style. Miss Hattie Bell Ladd gave a delightful rendition of Olivette, while the chorus was up to its usual standard. Two more nights only of this bill when Sousa's famous opera El Capitan will hold the boards. Special Olivette matinee Saturday for ladies and children. Twenty-five cents to all parts of the house.

New bill at the Orpheum tonight.
